CALABASAS, CA - Harbor Freight is adding a Professional Digital Display Circuit Light Tester with Interchangeable Shanks to its ICON™ lineup.

Ideal for working on 6/12/24V systems, the 3 to 49V DC detection range can be used for testing a wide variety of vehicles, and the <10mA draw is safe for use on computers.

Featuring a bright LED digital display with high-voltage warning, the Circuit Light Tester provides a quick, clear view in all light conditions, and the Multicolor LED indicator glows red for positive, and green for negative.

The ICON Professional Digital Display Circuit Light Tester with Interchangeable Shanks accurately detects if the source is power or ground, and it has surge and over-voltage protection.

Engineered with heavy duty induction-hardened stainless steel for improved durability, it has premium insulated alligator clamps with an ultra-flexible coiled wire.

The ergonomically designed grooved, clear handle allows the user to test electrical circuits with one hand, and the threaded probes, adapters, and clamps provide a secure, and complete connection.

For added convenience, the ICON Professional Digital Display Circuit Light Tester comes with a heavy duty case that has removable pins and easily converts into a tool tray.

Offering incredible value compared to the competition, the ICON Professional Digital Display Circuit Light Tester with Interchangeable Shanks is available only at Harbor Freight.
